

VACATIONING AT KNOCKTOPHER ABBEY

There's something about Southern Ireland that makes you feel relaxed from the moment you arrive. The timeless peace and beauty of Knocktopher Abbey is sure to work its magic on even the most stressed visitor. Set in the green and pleasant countryside between the historic towns of Kilkenny and Waterford, on the main road from Dublin, the Abbey makes an ideal touring centre for the picturesque south east of Ireland, surrounded as it is by all the wild, unspoilt beauty of mountain ranges, coast and rolling countryside dotted with traditional cottages, farmhouses and pubs. From here you can enjoy the traditional Irish hospitality — not to mention the unique flavour of 'fresh' Guinness! — while you explore forest roads, nature trails, riverbanks, villages, harbours, beaches, castles, abbeys and country crafts galore. Dublin's fair city is only a one and a half hour's drive away.

EXPLORING THE AREA

Kilkenny, just 20 minutes drive away, is a city boasting its own Cathedral - St. Canices, dating back to 870AD, as well as the ancient Kilkenny castle in its beautiful riverside location, the Black Abbey, and no less than 77 pubs - 6 of them side by side in one street!

There is also an interesting shopping area, a riding stable, and some excellent restaurants and entertaining bars, if you feel like sampling the local atmosphere. Just half an hour's drive away is Dunmore East, one of the many small picturesque fishing villages for which this coastline is famous, which has one of the finest small uncommercial harbours in Ireland, offering fine sailing and sea fishing.

You can also inquire at the reception desk for the rental of a motor cruiser to explore the local coastline, including the Barrow Navigation, the Nore and the River Suir, all renowned for their outstanding natural beauty.

FISHING AND GOLF

Ireland is a fisherman's dream, with 9,000 miles of rivers, 600,000 acres of lakes and 3,000 miles of coastline. Irish golf clubs love visitors and within the vicinity of Knocktopher you could comfortably play a different course every day for a fortnight and still leave some unvisited. Indeed, just a few minutes drive from the Abbey is Mount Juliet, one of Ireland's finest 18 hole championship golf courses. At the other end of the scale, for the friendly family foursomes, there are also a number of 9-hole courses.

DINING

The nearby town of Kilkenny offers a good range of dining options, ranging from fast food eateries to fine dining establishments. Many of the local pubs also serve food.

The resort's restaurant, The Black Abbot's Bistro, is situated in an original 13th century vaulted room. Adding to your enjoyment of your evening meal will also be the historic fact that in this very room is located one of only three Holy Trinity Wells in Ireland. This onsite restaurant is only open once a week for dinner (Irish Night).
